Fire & Ice Winter Madness Festival 2018

The Fire & Ice Winter Madness Festival was held on Saturday, February 3 at Memorial Park. Sponsored by the Lebanon Township Recreation Commission and Friends of Memorial Park, the event included burning of Christmas trees, sledding, free hot beverages, s'mores, music, food trucks, and an ice carving demonstration.

The Lebanon Township Volunteer Fire Department did all the heavy lifting, feeding the fire with Christmas trees brought to the park by members of the community. Justin Pill of Cold Spring Lawn and Landscape and the Pascale Family supplied truckloads of pallets to help build the bonfire.

Squeals of delight could be heard from the children sledding down the big hill. Occasionally they would take a break to make s'mores or warm up with a cup of hot chocolate.

Adults and children were mesmerized with the talent of Bob Johnson, "the Iceman", who carved three 300lb blocks of ice into works of art. He worked off suggestions from the crowd and created an eagle with an American flag, Olaf from the movie Frozen, and a dog on a pedestal symbolizing the Chinese New Year and the Year of the Dog. The ice blocks were moved and on display in front of the Municipal Building on West Hill Road for many days after the event.

Fired Up Flatbread Company, Chick Wings & Things and the Empanada Guy fed the crowd with their delicious offerings. The Empanada Guy was especially a hit, and was sold out by the end of the night.

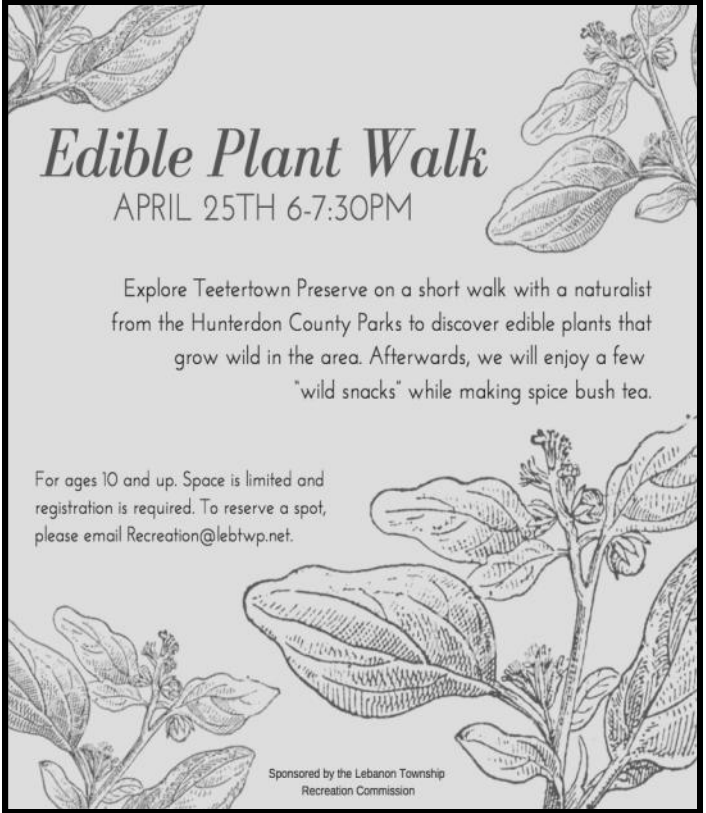

Thank you to the many people and volunteer groups involved with organizing a fun event for our community. We hope this is the start to a tradition that friends and neighbors will look forward to each year!

Emerald Ash Borer Update - EAB on the Rise in our Woods

The emerald ash borer is bad news for our forests. This beetle, also known as EAB, is originally from Asia, and has killed many millions of trees nationally since it was first discovered in 2002. As of January 2018, EAB infestations have been detected in Bergen, Burlington, Camden, Essex, Hudson, Hunterdon, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Somerset, Sussex, and Warren counties in New Jersey. This pest attacks only ash trees.

Ash trees are a very common and important tree in Lebanon Township - they make up about 10% of our woodlands. They provide shade in our parks and cool houses from summer heat, and provide places to nest for native birds and insects. Ash is an important wood economically - it's used for flooring, furniture, baseball bats, tool handles, and has many uses on farms.

You can help stop EAB from spreading by learning to identify healthy ash trees, learning the signs of infestation, and reporting damage. If you see a lot of woodpecker activity or damage on an ash tree as the birds try to eat the beetles and larvae, call the NJ State Department of Agriculture at (609) 406-6939 right away as treatment may be possible. After that you may see dieback at the top section of the tree, or the bark may split - trees live only about 3-4 years after infestation begins, and almost all ash trees will die. Do not transport firewood cut from any ash tree more than 50 miles from its source - that is how the pest spreads to other areas.

Identifying Ash trees is not difficult. All species have opposite branching and compound leaves with 5-11 leaflets. The bark of older trees has deep diamond shaped furrows, but the bark of young trees can be smooth and gray.

For more information on EAB go to <http://www.nj.gov/agriculture/divisions/pi/prog/emeraldashborer.html>.

Beautify Your Yard With Native Trees

Are you wondering, "What can we plant that might provide shade or screen our property so we don't see the road (or that ugly shed) ... and quickly?" Plant catalogs are arriving now, full of descriptions of "fast growers" that seem to fit the bill. Or do they?

Buyers beware! "Fast-growing" can mean "pest"! Bamboo, for example, is a popular choice to screen properties from the road or unattractive structures. But while bamboo grows fast, unfortunately, some types don't respect property boundaries. If it is planted near a road or your driveway, some types will send runners under fences and can bust through asphalt. One local homeowner was horrified to find the sharp bamboo stalks coming up through his house floorboards! Getting rid of a plant pests takes dollars, herbicides and years of patient vigilance. The best way to get rid of bamboo is not to plant it... and keep your property safe!

So plant natives instead! There are many native options that are lovely, provide great habitat for birds and other wildlife, and are also relatively fast growers. Maple trees grow quickly, and provide shade and shelter for wildlife. Some large native shrubs, such as red twig dogwood and the American cranberrybush, have colorful stems or fruit that can beautify an area while providing some screening. Even large perennials like sunflowers or Joe Pye weed can provide privacy during the summer months.

Native plant sales have become very popular locally, so keep your eyes peeled for them. New Jersey Audubon, Bowman's Hill Preserve and the Musconetcong Watershed Association all host native plants sales in the growing season, and the prices are excellent. For more information about native plant sales, consult the "Lebanon Twp Community Bulletin Board" or the "Green Team" page on Facebook in April and May!

Well Water Testing Update! Well Water Testing Available to Lebanon Township Residents

If your family gets drinking water from a private well, how do you know that the water is safe to drink? Unlike public drinking water systems, private wells are not regularly checked for contamination before the water is sent to the tap. Households that use private wells must take special precautions to ensure the safety of their drinking water supplies. You cannot see, taste or smell many common well water contaminants, so regular testing is very important.

Much like annual preventative health screenings, an annual well test for bacteria and nitrates is an important part of maintaining good health. This practice ensures early detection of contamination so that measures can be taken to correct it. Those residents on public water are encouraged to test their water for lead, as the primary source of lead contamination is indoor plumbing. This spring, the Lebanon Township Environmental & Open Space Commission will partner with nonprofit clean water advocate Raritan Headwaters to offer water testing to citizens at below-market cost.

Residents can purchase water sample collection kits at the Lebanon Township Municipal Building at 530 West Hill Road on May 5 from 8:00 am to noon. Water samples must be dropped off at the Municipal Building on Monday, May 7 between 7:00 am and 10:00 am. Test results will be available approximately two weeks later.

Raritan Headwaters is a non-profit watershed conservation organization working to protect and preserve the public's access to safe, clean water that is swimmable, fishable and most importantly, drinkable. Eighty percent of the residents of this region – about 320,000 people - obtain their drinking water through wells. Well water pollutants found in the region include coliform bacteria, nitrate, arsenic, iron, radon, and volatile organic compounds. Sources of contamination may be failing septic systems, chemicals like fertilizers, herbicides, pesticides, and naturally-occurring contaminants. Water may also become contaminated with lead and copper as it travels through older pipes in the home.

Raritan Headwaters offers a “basic kit” for coliform bacteria and nitrate for $60. Residents may also test for other potential contaminants at an additional cost. Raritan Headwaters staff members are available to advise citizens who are uncertain about which tests to order and to review individual results after testing is complete. More information on the tests we offer can be found at www.testmywell.org. Testing is performed by a private state certified laboratory and results are confidential.

The Community Well Testing program was established in 1974, allowing Raritan Headwaters to monitor the health of our region's groundwater supply for over four decades. Raritan Headwaters recently completed a 30-year trend analysis of well water tests in the region, which showed an increase in arsenic levels in several towns, as well as slight increases in coliform bacteria and nitrate concentrations.

Your private well is an important investment that is best protected by regular check-ups to ensure a reliable and safe source of drinking water for you and your family.

Residents who aren't able to take advantage of the township's Community Well Testing program can contact Mara Tippet, Raritan Headwaters Well Test Manager, anytime throughout the year to arrange to pick up a test kit in Flemington. She can be contacted at (908) 234-1852, ext. 401 or by email at welltest@raritanheadwaters.org. For more information about Raritan Headwaters and its programs, go to www.raritanheadwaters.org.

Raising Healthy Children: Resiliency

Presented by George Scot, Family Therapist, Director at Center for Counseling Services

Climate change has been a hot topic for decades, but what about the climate in the home, or the climate in the school, or in the classroom? Has that climate changed and is that a contributing factor to student struggles? The answer is yes, and the good news is there are solutions. With understanding comes insight. Interpretation drives intervention. When we know what the contributing factors are, then we are better prepared to make changes that benefit all of our children. Helping parents understand creates partnerships. Topics discussed will include: Increase in number of children prescribed and taking psychotropic medication and referred for psychiatric evaluations, adolescent use of drugs/alcohol, and self-injury.

Solutions to Stormwater Pollution

Easy Things You Can Do Every Day To Protect Our Water

A Guide to Healthy Habits for Cleaner Water

Pollution on streets, parking lots and lawns is washed by rain into storm drains, then directly to our drinking water supplies and the ocean and lakes our children play in. Fertilizer, oil, pesticides, detergents, pet waste, grass clippings: You name it and it ends up in our water.

Stormwater pollution is one of New Jersey's greatest threats to clean and plentiful water, and that's why we're all doing something about it.

By sharing the responsibility and making small, easy changes in our daily lives, we can keep common pollutants out of stormwater. It all adds up to cleaner water, and it saves the high cost of cleaning up once it's dirty.

As part of New Jersey's initiative to keep our water clean and plentiful and to meet federal requirements, many municipalities and other public agencies including colleges and military bases must adopt ordinances or other rules prohibiting various activities that contribute to stormwater pollution. Breaking these rules can result in fines or other penalties.

As a resident, business, or other member of the New Jersey community, it is important to know these easy things you can do every day to protect our water.

Limit your use of fertilizers and pesticides

- Do a soil test to see if you need a fertilizer.
- Do not apply fertilizers if heavy rain is predicted.
- Look into alternatives for pesticides.
- Maintain a small lawn and keep the rest of your property or yard in a natural state with trees and other native vegetation that requires little or no fertilizer.
- If you use fertilizers and pesticides, follow the instructions on the label on how to correctly apply it.

Make sure you properly store or discard any unused portions.

Properly use and dispose of hazardous products

- Hazardous products include some household or commercial cleaning products, lawn and garden care products, motor oil, antifreeze, and paints.
- Do not pour any hazardous products down a storm drain because storm drains are usually connected to local waterbodies and the water is not treated.

- If you have hazardous products in your home or workplace, make sure you store or dispose of them properly. Read the label for guidance.
- Use natural or less toxic alternatives when possible.
- Recycle used motor oil.
- Contact your municipality, county or facility management office for the locations of hazardous-waste disposal facilities.

Keep pollution out of storm drains

- Municipalities and many other public agencies are required to mark certain storm drain inlets with messages reminding people that storm drains are connected to local waterbodies.
- Do not let sewage or other wastes flow into a stormwater system.

Clean up after your pet

- Many municipalities and public agencies must enact and enforce local pet-waste rules.
- An example is requiring pet owners or their keepers to pick up and properly dispose of pet waste dropped on public or other people’s property.
- Make sure you know your town’s or agency’s requirements and comply with them. It’s the law. And remember to:

- Use newspaper, bags or pooper-scoopers to pick up wastes.
- Dispose of the wrapped pet waste in the trash or un-wrapped in a toilet.
- Never discard pet waste in a storm drain.

Don’t litter

- Place litter in trash receptacles.
- Recycle. Recycle. Recycle.
- Participate in community cleanups.

Dispose of yard waste properly

- Keep leaves and grass out of storm drains.
- If your municipality or agency has yard waste collection rules, follow them.
- Use leaves and grass clippings as a resource for compost.
- Use a mulching mower that recycles grass clippings into the lawn.

Historians

A Look Back At The Past

Teacher Willie Philhour stands with his class at the Bunnvale School circa 1920. Do you recognize any faces? Board of education minutes from July 6, 1915, read, "A motion was made by Jos. M. Apgar and seconded by Walter Creveling to be instructed to construct the Bunnvale School house according to plans and specifications proposed by P.C. Van Nuys of Somerville for the sum of $1,800." It served as a school until closing in 1954 when the first section of the Woodglen School was opened. It was reopened in September 1956 and served kindergarten classes until 1958 while an addition to Woodglen was completed. This happened again from September 1961 to June 1963 for the same reason. In 1977, members of the PTA petitioned the Board of Education, opposing the plan to auction off the building. They did not want to see the building used for commercial purposes. Instead, the Township Historians proposed using the building for a library. On June 13, 1978, the Board of Education sold the Bunnvale School to the Township for $1.00 and the Township Committee appointed a Library Committee who oversaw its restoration and establishment as the Bunnvale Library. Remember this image the next time you step into Bunnvale Library; you'll see that chalkboard still hanging on the wall!

Photographs are essential to the connections with family, friends, our community and the countless memories we share. The Lebanon Township Historians are working to create a digital archive of material including photos, newspaper clippings, documents, family trees, etc. If you have material depicting life in Lebanon Township, please contact the Historians at museum@lebtwp.net. We are dedicated to preserving what we regard as crucial pieces of Lebanon Township history and to sharing the stories behind these vintage photos of life in our community.

Interesting New Jersey Colony Facts

From SoftSchools.com

By: Nina Savoia, Historian

- From 1664 to 1702, the New Jersey Colony was divided into East Jersey and West Jersey. Each had their own constitution. The border was never firmly established and often in dispute.
- In 1702, East Jersey and West Jersey became one royal colony. Its first governor was Edward Hyde, Lord Cornbury, who proved to be corrupt.
- After Lord Cornbury was sent back to England, the New Jersey Colony was ruled by New York's governor. It wasn't until 1738 that the New Jersey Colony separated from New York's government and adopted its own governor, Lewis Morris.
- Major towns in the New Jersey Colony included Princeton and Trenton.
- The Middle Colonies had a warmer climate than the New England Colonies and had land that made agriculture and farming much easier.
- The New Jersey Colony was not dominated by the Puritans like in the New England Colonies and had religious tolerance and freedom for its settlers. Settlers to the New Jersey Colony included Catholics, Jews, Lutherans, and Quakers.
- Natural resources in the New Jersey Colony included agricultural land, forests (timber), iron ore, coal, and furs.
- Major exports from the New Jersey Colony included livestock, rice, wheat, indigo, rice, grain and other agricultural products.
- Iron ore was important to the New Jersey Colony. They used it to manufacture items to export to England such as tools, kettles, nails, and plows. They also exported large chunks of iron to be manufactured into iron products elsewhere.
- The New Jersey Colony was one of the colonies referred to as a 'breadbasket' colony because it grew so much wheat, which was ground into flour and exported to England.
- A typical New Jersey Colony farm included a barn, house, fields, and between 50 and 150 acres of land.
- The first state constitution in New Jersey was adopted on July 2, 1776, after the American Revolution had already begun. This constitution gave women and blacks the right to vote if they met specific requirements, which helped avoid a complete collapse of its government.
- The New Jersey Colony was located in such a position that it saw a lot of action during the American Revolution.
- The New Jersey Colony became the 3rd U.S. state of the original 13 colonies on December 18, 1787.

"Over the years we've had extensive experience with other realtors, and can say with confidence that Sharon is a truly exceptional realtor. She provided thoughtful, timely responses to all of our questions. Her knowledge of the market where we were looking (Califon-Lebanon Township) was first-rate. And after numerous positive experiences, we quickly learned to trust Sharon's network of inspectors, real-estate lawyers, surveyors, etc. Time and time again she went above and beyond the call of duty, and she worked tirelessly to make sure we ended up in a home that we were truly satisfied with. Bottom line: If it wasn't for Sharon, we likely would have settled for a home that didn't fully fit our family or lifestyle. We can't say enough good things about our experience with her, and give her our highest recommendation!"

Garlic Mustard (Alliaria petiolate)

By: Doug Diehl

Garlic mustard is an edible weed commonly found in yard edges, open forest and areas that have been disturbed by development. This herb produces distinctive toothed leaves and small four-petal white flowers. If cut or crushed, it will produce a distinctive garlic odor.

This plant produces white flowers during May into June. During the summer, the flowers evolve into long thin podlike capsules which makes the plant look very different from its flowering phase. The seeds are small and black, and are many in number. If conditions are right, the seeds will germinate into many plants the following year. Together with root propagation, this can result in a monoculture of many of its kind within a given area.

It is best to pull out this plant before it flowers. Goggle “Garlic Mustard” images this spring to see if you have this invasive weed. You may notice this as a spring plant that is familiar to you.
