Township Committee

Lebanon Township Committee Celebrates the 100th Anniversary of Women's Suffrage 1920 - 2020

The year 2020 marks the 100th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment to the United States Constitution, guaranteeing and protecting a woman's right to vote. The centennial offers an opportunity to commemorate a milestone of democracy; that the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the federal or state governments on account of gender.

New Jersey has had a long storied history in the suffrage movement with New Jersey women playing a crucial role in pursuing the rights of women to vote. In 1776, women property owners were enfranchised under the New Jersey State Constitution, which was unique in the nation at the time, however, in 1807, the New Jersey Legislature eliminated the property requirement for voting rights and limited the ballot to white males. It took seven decades of dedication and determination by millions of women from across the country, including New Jersey leaders Alice Stokes Paul, Lucy Stone, Dr. Emma O. Gantz, Martha Klatshchken, Rosalie Jones, Allison Turnbull Hopkins, Julia Hulburt, Beatrice Reynolds Kinkead, and Minnie D. Abbott, to secure a woman's right to vote. We owe these great women and the men who supported them a debt of gratitude. On February 9, 1920, New Jersey proudly became number 29 of the original 36 states to ratify the 19th amendment and on August 18, 1920, Tennessee was the last of the required number of 36 states to ratify, which secured the amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The 19th Amendment was signed into law on August 26, 1920, by Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby.

To celebrate the centennial of New Jersey women's suffrage, a proclamation honoring the efforts of the suffragists was prepared and read by Lebanon Township Committeewoman, Beverly Koehler at the February 5, 2020, Township Committee meeting. The dais was decorated for the occasion in purple, white and gold, the colors of the U.S. suffragists. The proclamation can be found on the Lebanon Township website at www.lebanontownship.net.

Museum

News from the Museum ...

Twenty-twenty got off to a sweet start with M&M Teachers' Portraits created by Mr. Maxwell's seventh and eighth grade Art Club students. These colorful works of art added a colorful touch to the museum's walls. Visitors were encouraged to look but not eat ... luckily for them, we also had some personalized "Wildcat" M&Ms available for consumption at our Art Show Opening Reception in early January.

Northern Lights Landscapes by Mrs. Newcomb's third grade students completed the show. Students proudly showed off their artwork to their parents, siblings, grandparents, and friends. Third grader Livia Oliveira won our "guess how many buttons in the jar" contest and got to bring home a 500 piece art set. Much to our surprise, her younger brother Adam had the second closest guess (winning himself a set of branch pencils). Great job, Oliveira kids! We can't wait to see what you create with your new art supplies.

The schedule is as follows:

Thursday, March 5: Iron Jawed Angels - Defiant young activists take the women's suffrage movement by storm, putting their lives at risk to help American women win the right to vote.

Thursday, March 19: Not For Ourselves Alone Part One - Ken Burns documentary on Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony.

Thursday, March 26: Not For Ourselves Alone Part Two

A Closing Reception will be held on Saturday, March 21 from 1:00 - 3:00 PM. The Suffrage Movement & the Work of Alice Paul will be presented by Linda Barth, retired educator, author and the Executive Director of the League of Historical Societies of New Jersey. Light refreshments will be served.

Do you have any vintage baseball uniforms, equipment, paraphernalia, or stories to share? We'd love to borrow them for our April and May baseball exhibit.

Please be sure to follow Friends of the Lebanon Township Museum on Facebook or sign up for our email list to stay informed of all upcoming events! Contact Curator Gina Sampaio at (908) 638-8523 x405 or museum@lebtwp.net with any questions.

Threading the Needle: Honoring Women's Activism with an Exhibit of Quilts that Celebrate the Suffrage Centennial opened on February 1 with a packed house to enjoy the never-before-seen quilts created by the Courthouse Quilters specifically for this show. Alongside the quilts are many of the Museum's artifacts including some recently uncovered wooden and honeycomb glass ballot boxes. These boxes were most likely first used around the time that women were granted the right to vote in 1920 and last used in Lebanon Township's November 1970 General Election.

Many events are planned to complement this exhibit, including Movies at the Museum in March. Doors open at 6:30 PM for all movies, light refreshments will be served and admission is free.

Historians

A Look Back at the Past -- The Story of Irishtown

Since the early 1700s, many Irish laborers settled in New Jersey. Newark's Ironbound section was dubbed Little Ireland, Trenton's Fourth Ward was known as Irishtown and Paterson had its own Dublin. Spring Lake and other shore towns are still called the Irish Riviera. But did you know the story of how a small settlement along present day State Route 31, (near Gem Vacuum), became known as "Irishtown"? Lebanon Township Historian Chuck Speierl researched the story...

In the mid 19th century "the thriving village of Clarksville," (present day Glen Gardner), was viewed as an up and coming location with great investment potential. An ad appearing in The Hunterdon Republican newspaper of June 21, 1867, regarding the sale of Eveland's Hotel (present day Humphrey's Tavern), proclaimed the excellent condition of the three-story hotel which boasted 22 rooms. It also bragged of the hotel's proximity to the New Jersey Central Railroad and being 200 yards from the train station. The article went on further to state that "there are stores, mills, shops, churches, school-houses, in the immediate vicinity and the village of Clarksville is a very prosperous and flourishing condition, affording an excellent opportunity for investment and business".

The history of Glen Gardner and Irishtown was connected to the railroad as well as the industries and job opportunities that developed there. It was not until 1888, that the first reference is made to Irishtown. According to a death notice in the Hunterdon Republican of March 21, 1888, Castor Ehli, age 62, a resident of Irishtown, a suburb of Glen Gardner, died after a two-year battle with stomach cancer. It was acknowledged that Ehli gave the "small settlement of Irish families" its name. Irishtown is also noted several times in the childhood recollections of Lillian Hunt, (1878-1955), in her published memoir "Little Memories of Childhood in Glen Gardner, New Jersey". One can infer that the area of Irishtown was known and existed before 1888.

According to the data on occupations in Glen Gardner, workers with Irish surnames, and those specific to Irishtown, two areas of employment stand out; the railroad and the quarry industry. A large number of Irish in need of work found employment with the railroad as track walkers, fireman, brakeman, track boss, station agent, or coal worker. According to period maps of Clarksville and Glen Gardner, a stone breaker was shown to exist on the south end of Irishtown. The map also shows at least six buildings, listed under Irish surnames, near the stone breaker and along the eastern side of the Central Railroad of NJ tracks. It would make sense that this facility employed a good portion of men from Irishtown not already employed on the railroad. Occupations were simply listed as "worker at stone cracker."

In 1891, the Glen Gardner Occupational Index listed that a Thomas Miller, contractor, "resumes work at the Stone Crusher with a force of 40 men." Based on period newspaper accounts, church history, cemetery records, death notices, etc., the number of Irish residents in the area appear to be quite large. It is particularly interesting that "The Weekly Avalanche", Glen Gardner's weekly newspaper of the time, reported that "the factory was closed down and the stores all closed on St. Patrick's Day." (The Weekly Avalanche, March 20, 1901). The Irish population must have been very large indeed to result in the closing of the town's businesses to commemorate a day so important to the Irish people.

Other employment opportunities existed. In 1864, the Gardner brothers, William, Oliver, George, John, and Joseph arrived, in then Clarksville, from New York City and established a picture and mirror frame business. Their large three-story factory built in 1865, would eventually employ 700 workers. Some of these employees were no doubt Irish laborers who made $2 to $6 a day. This appears a far better wage than what quarry workers earned. As a comparison, quarry workers at the nearby Mulligan quarry in Clinton would make 12 to 14 cents per hour for a 12 ½ hour day.

Many residents shared a common heritage rooted in the history of Ireland. They fled religious persecution, prejudice and the horrors of ethnic cleansing as well as the starvation, death and disease of the famine years. Once here, they overcame anti-immigrant opposition and fought to establish themselves as business and community leaders and to start churches in their communities that still exist today as a testament to their determination.

A prime example of this is the establishment, in 1859, of St. Ann's Catholic church in Hampton. The church served the large Irish population in Hampton, Glen Gardner and Irishtown. By 1866, St. Ann's congregation numbered over 1,000. In addition to the present day stone church a school was built adjacent to the church in the late 1860s. It was torn down in the 1920s. According to church records, and those of the New Jersey Genealogical Society, as many as 1,200 tombstones in St. Ann's cemetery bear Irish surnames.

While some became prosperous, and noted community leaders, others made up the poorer, laboring class. They lived out their daily hardscrabble existence overcoming economic hardships, illness and unsafe working conditions. With the exception of their tombstones in parish churches and family memories, many have gone unrecognized. The Lebanon Township Museum has a copy of the full account of the people of Irishtown; their history, occupations, family life, religion, and more. Stop by and check it out!

Solutions to Stormwater Pollution

Easy Things You Can Do Every Day To Protect Our Water

A Guide to Healthy Habits for Cleaner Water

Pollution on streets, parking lots and lawns is washed by rain into storm drains, then directly to our drinking water supplies and the ocean and lakes our children play in. Fertilizer, oil, pesticides, detergents, pet waste, grass clippings: You name it and it ends up in our water.

Stormwater pollution is one of New Jersey's greatest threats to clean and plentiful water, and that's why we're all doing something about it.

By sharing the responsibility and making small, easy changes in our daily lives, we can keep common pollutants out of stormwater. It all adds up to cleaner water, and it saves the high cost of cleaning up once it's dirty.

As part of New Jersey's initiative to keep our water clean and plentiful and to meet federal requirements, many municipalities and other public agencies including colleges and military bases must adopt ordinances or other rules prohibiting various activities that contribute to stormwater pollution. Breaking these rules can result in fines or other penalties.

As a resident, business, or other member of the New Jersey community, it is important to know these easy things you can do every day to protect our water.

Limit your use of fertilizers and pesticides

- Do a soil test to see if you need a fertilizer.
- Do not apply fertilizers if heavy rain is predicted.
- Look into alternatives for pesticides.
- Maintain a small lawn and keep the rest of your property or yard in a natural state with trees and other native vegetation that requires little or no fertilizer.
- If you use fertilizers and pesticides, follow the instructions on the label on how to correctly apply it.

Make sure you properly store or discard any unused portions.

Properly use and dispose of hazardous products

- Hazardous products include some household or commercial cleaning products, lawn and garden care products, motor oil, antifreeze, and paints.
- Do not pour any hazardous products down a storm drain because storm drains are usually connected to local waterbodies and the water is not treated.

- If you have hazardous products in your home or workplace, make sure you store or dispose of them properly. Read the label for guidance.
- Use natural or less toxic alternatives when possible.
- Recycle used motor oil.
- Contact your municipality, county or facility management office for the locations of hazardous-waste disposal facilities.

Keep pollution out of storm drains

- Municipalities and many other public agencies are required to mark certain storm drain inlets with messages reminding people that storm drains are connected to local waterbodies.

- Do not let sewage or other wastes flow into a stormwater system.

Clean up after your pet

- Many municipalities and public agencies must enact and enforce local pet-waste rules.
- An example is requiring pet owners or their keepers to pick up and properly dispose of pet waste dropped on public or other people’s property.
- Make sure you know your town’s or agency’s requirements and comply with them. It’s the law. And remember to:

- Use newspaper, bags or pooper-scoopers to pick up wastes.
- Dispose of the wrapped pet waste in the trash or un-wrapped in a toilet.
- Never discard pet waste in a storm drain.

Don’t litter

- Place litter in trash receptacles.
- Recycle. Recycle. Recycle.
- Participate in community cleanups.

Dispose of yard waste properly

- Keep leaves and grass out of storm drains.
- If your municipality or agency has yard waste collection rules, follow them.
- Use leaves and grass clippings as a resource for compost.
- Use a mulching mower that recycles grass clippings into the lawn.

REALTOR

COLDWELL BANKER RESIDENTIAL BROKERAGE

In my everyday work and personal life I find it so important to be kind and to give back unconditionally. It improves both our health and the health of the places we live! Here are some acts of kindness you can do not just for your neighborhood, but everywhere. Don't be limited because possibilities are endless!

Bring dinner to a neighbor who needs a hand or lives alone. Don't be shy, seek out that elderly person and ask what it is you can do for them. Shoveling snow, raking leaves, or even just a cup of tea and a beautiful conversation go a long way! Welcome your new neighbors. Help them move things in and show them around town. Tell them all the great things about the place we live. On a rainy day share your umbrella with someone. When you are at that coffee shop, buy the person next to you a coffee. If you aren't using something anymore pass it along to those who can use it. Plant flowers for someone because all of us deserve to have colorful blooms in our lives. It is as simple as a smile and a friendly hello.

We often forget that even the smallest acts have the power to impact so many. Love and kindness are timeless! They don't have to cost a dime and you can share them anywhere.

As a Realtor with Coldwell Banker I am grateful to be part of the kindness I experience in our neighborhoods..

Weight Reduction: Benefits and Strategies By Nicholas J. Avallone, M.D., F.A.A.O.S.

Obesity is a common problem for many Americans. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has published some interesting statistics about obesity and helpful tips regarding improving one's body weight on its website at CDC.gov and will be referred to frequently in this article. According to a 2016 survey from the CDC, 39.8% of Americans suffer from obesity. The group with the highest levels of obesity is middle-aged adults at 42.8%. Approximately 20% of children between the ages of 6 and 19 suffer from obesity. The causes are multifactorial as genetics, disease states, lifestyle choices, socioeconomic status, and environmental factors appear to all play a role in the development of these high obesity rates in our country.

The determination as to whether a person suffers from obesity is made by calculating their body mass index (BMI). The formula for calculating one's BMI is weight in pounds divided by one's squared height in inches multiplied by the conversion factor of 703 [ $\text{Weight} \div (\text{Height})^2 \times 703$ ]. A healthy BMI is considered to be between 18.5 and 24.9. Overweight is defined as a BMI of 25.0 to 29.9 and obesity is determined to be a BMI greater than 30. For children, the calculation is the same, however, they are compared on growth charts to other kids of the same age, height and sex. According to the CDC, a BMI at the 95th percentile or higher for that person's age and sex defines obesity in children.

An elevated BMI is considered to be an indirect indicator of excess body fat. According to the CDC, a high BMI is correlated with the development of certain disease states that can lead to premature death such as heart disease, type 2 diabetes, stroke and some forms of cancer. Thus, improving one's BMI is considered an important way to promote good overall health. The CDC also cites that obesity increases healthcare costs significantly.

While genetics certainly play a role in the development of obesity, there are some modifiable factors to consider. Making good choices in one's diet is central to battling obesity. Choosing water instead of drinks containing sugar is an easy place to control caloric intake. Having a diet that includes a higher proportion of fruits and vegetables has also been found to improve BMI. Getting enough sleep has also been found to increase one's energy during the day, which often leads to heightened amounts of activity and thereby can lead to a lower BMI. With respect to physical activity levels, many research studies have demonstrated that daily or nearly daily exercise routines lead to improved health. In diabetics, improved blood sugar control is seen in patients who exercise daily.

When a person eats has also been found to be almost as important as what a person eats. Eating large meals late at night has been shown to increase body weight. Scientific studies have demonstrated that the human body would like to have the most calories at the beginning of the day and smaller meals as the day progresses. This makes sense from an energy expenditure standpoint as breakfast should be the meal that gives a person the energy to navigate a busy day. Dinner has become our biggest meal but should really be the smallest meal as the energy required to sleep is far less than that required to perform our daily activities.

As a society, it is important for us to do what we can to reduce the prevalence of obesity so we can all live healthier and longer lives. Making small changes in behavior can have a big impact on our overall health. To summarize: drink water instead of sugar-filled beverages, exercise daily and eat a large breakfast and a small dinner.

Recycling

Recycling has Changed

Lebanon Township will no longer be holding the monthly Recycling Depot in the parking lot behind the Municipal Building. Instead, a recycling dumpster has been placed in the parking lot and is available for residents to drop off their recyclable materials at any time. The dumpster will be emptied on a weekly basis.

Please understand that it is extremely important that materials placed in the dumpster, are actually recyclable. The service provider scrutinizes the contents of the dumpster; if there are too many non-recyclable materials, none of the material will be recycled and will instead be sent to a landfill.

Please refer to the information below to determine whether or not something can be placed in the recycling dumpster. Detailed information is also available at <https://recyclingsimplified.com/recycling-basics/>.

DO Recycle these Items:

Glass bottles or jars with lids attached
Plastic bottles or jugs with lids attached
Metal cans
Flattened cardboard
Non-mixed paper – remove bubble wrap from padded envelopes and plastic windows from paper envelopes

DON'T Recycle these Items:

Plastic bags of any kind
Items which are wet
Items which contain food or food residue, including pizza boxes with grease residue
Bubble wrap or Styrofoam
Unattached lids – they are too small – instead, attach them to the bottle or jug they came from

Community News

Lower Valley Presbyterian Church 445 County Road 513 Califon, NJ

Our garden is growing ... come grow with us!

Do you love to garden? Would you like to have a sunny spot with a nice, tall fence and all the tools you need to grow fresh, healthy food for your family during the spring, summer and fall? Would you love to also help feed those less fortunate right here in our community? If your answers were "yes" to these questions, then we've got a place for you.

The Lower Valley Presbyterian Church has a community garden and we would love to share it with you. Our garden has raised beds, including three extra-high beds for those whose bodies may not bend as easily as they used to. Beds are available for rent for $25 each and the garden is open from March through October. We supply soil, water, wheelbarrows, and a shed full of a variety of tools. You provide the seeds, plants and labor.

In addition to the personal garden beds, we also have a number of beds dedicated to growing food for the Open Cupboard Food Pantry. We ask that each garden member spend a few hours, one or two weeks of the season helping with the pantry beds and doing general garden maintenance. We harvest all summer long and into the fall for the Food Pantry. Last year, we donated 430 pounds of onions, potatoes, green beans, peas, tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce, spinach, beets, melons, and more.

The garden also provides a place for community residents to come together to garden and get to know each other.

If you would like more information, please visit our website at www.lowervalley.org/mission/mission.aspx, call Claudia Gilbert at the church office at (908) 832-2933 or email lowervalleypc@embarqmail.com.
